October 16th 2018: Encore: Clinical Trial Awareness; Treating and Preventing C.diff Infection

Join us with guest Sarah Mische, PhD as we discuss the value and importance of Clinical Trials worldwide. Learn about the different phases, the efficacy, patient safety, and research and development that begins the process. Clinical Trials have a beginning, evaluations, FDA meetings, with time well spent by dedicated Science professionals, Clinicians, Health care Providers, and the individuals who are accepted to participate in the studies. It will be an episode you won't want to miss! Listen in and learn how we can help them - to help you - to help others.
